If you missed the chance to join while a student, join now as a Nurse Leader!

An honor to join
Each year the Honor Society of Nursing, Sigma Theta Tau International (STTI) inducts well over 2,000 nurse leaders with a baccalaureate degree or equivalent in any field and a demonstrated achievement in nursing.

Nurse leader criteria
If you are a nurse practicing in your country as a clinician, educator, researcher, entrepreneur, staff leader or administrator, or in another nursing-related role; have a baccalaureate degree or equivalent in any field; and have demonstrated a passion for nursing excellence, you are eligible to apply as a nurse leader.

Examples of nursing excellence
- Preceptor for newer nurses
- Adjunct instructor
- Published writer
- Developed education classes
- Volunteered in a disaster area
- Expert witness
- Experienced lecturer
- Served on a board, task force or advisory council
- Involved in community outreach project

“The baccalaureate program I attended did not have a chapter at the time I graduated, so it was an honor to be recognized by Gamma Sigma as a nurse leader. A continuous 25-year involvement at local, regional and international levels all began with my participation on a local committee and my belief, then and now, that Sigma Theta Tau truly does impact the health of the world’s people.”

Gamma Sigma Chapter

Application process
To find a chapter, go to www.nursingsociety.org/chapters. To complete an online application go to www.nursingsociety.org/membership.

Your information will be forwarded to a chapter for review and approval. The chapter will contact you regarding your membership acceptance, chapter activities and membership dues.

“Belonging to Sigma Theta Tau International has broadened my worldview of nursing and helped me to understand the importance of building and maintaining a solid scientific, humanistic and ethical foundation for the profession. Sigma Theta Tau has helped me see more clearly how I want to evolve as a nurse, with quality and professional conscience.”
