

State System review on-schedule; Phase 3 underway

The State System's strategic review is moving along as planned and is on-schedule. NCHEMS—the consultant assisting the Board of Governors with the strategic review—has visited every university in the State System and has held meetings with numerous stakeholders. NCHEMS is beginning Phase 3 of the strategic review, which will include analysis of the data collected. This will help shape the recommendations that NCHEMS will provide to the Board of Governors this summer.

Even during this phase, additional input will continue to be collected. Students, faculty, staff, and anyone interested in providing input into the strategic system review may visit www.NCHEMSproject.com/system-review to provide ideas, insights, and opinions directly to the NCHEMS team using a webform on that site.
