

Save The Date!
10th Annual International Policy Conference
Wednesday and Thursday, October 18-19, 2017
Gordinier Hall, Millersville University

The national and international debate on immigration continues to be one of the most polarizing and important issues of our day. It is our hope that through this conference, our campus community is better equipped to understand and confront the individual and collective challenges we face on all fronts of the global migration crisis. From economics, to science, to security and human rights, each has an important role in accurately framing the issues and effectively shaping the policy prescriptions.

We invite our faculty, staff, and students to join us for this two-day discussion!
Please consider adding the event to your calendar and fall course syllabus.
