

Data analysis now underway; review on-track

The consultant (NCHEMS) assisting the Board of Governors with the Strategic System Review is hard at work analyzing the data collected over the past several months as it works toward developing recommendations for the State System. Additionally, the team from NCHEMS is reviewing the considerable stakeholder input that has been garnered through their campus visits, face-to-face meetings, conference calls, and via the survey on the website.

The review continues to move along as scheduled, with NCHEMS slated to make a presentation to the Board of Governors in July. Throughout the process, students, faculty, staff, and anyone interested in the process has been encouraged to visit the website to get updates and to provide their personal ideas, insights, and opinions. That website continues to be available at:
