Re: Appointment of Mr. Steve diFilipo, Interim Chief Information Officer

On November 26, I announced to the finance and administration staff the appointment of Steve diFilipo as the Interim Chief Information Officer for Millersville University, replacing Nancy Pruskowski. The announcement to the IT staff read in part, "Steve has a long and impressive list of accomplishments as a leader in higher education information technology over several decades. Steve has led IT departments for higher education institutions ranging in size from community colleges to large state systems as well as in health care and Fortune 500 corporate settings. In these various roles he has led Banner installations for three different campuses, has overseen instructional technology, mobile technology architecture and website development, and developed platform integration and data migration across multiple tenants. He has extensive experience in strategic planning and driving innovation to achieve business objectives, has demonstrated thought leadership at a national level and championed digital transformation to achieve institutional goals. He is focused on achieving results to support organizational goals."

Please join me in welcoming Steve diFilipo to Millersville.
