

Active Shooter Response Training on Campus

If you happen to see police officers around Lehigh Hall on Monday, March 11 and Tuesday, March 12, 2019, it is part of an active shooter response training exercise. Police are asking everyone to stay away from the building, which is on the northwest side of campus. The exterior doors will be locked during the training.

Police departments from around the area, including the Millersville University Police Department, will be in this training session. The training was coordinated by the Millersville Borough Police Department and is being conducted by a member of the FBI. The session does not include live ammunition.
