

State System News

Searching for clues: Students, staff from Bloomsburg University focus on tree swallows

Monday, July 8, 2019

A biology professor at Bloomsburg University, (Lauri) Green tracks flight schedules around 99 nest boxes that she and her students placed at four farms near campus this winter.

Kent Jackson | Wilkes-Barre Citizen

\$4M in money from Pa. to make college free for more Cheyney students

Monday, July 8, 2019

The Pennsylvania state budget that took effect July 1 will make it easier for students such as McGriff to follow a similar path to Cheyney: The spending plan contains $3.98 million to support the Keystone Honors Academy, which provides full scholarships to academically gifted students.

Kristen A. Graham | Philadelphia Inquirer

PASSHE Points to Bright Future Amid System Redesign, Funding Increase

Wednesday, July 3, 2019

The Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education, or PASSHE, has a lot happening in Harrisburg. Between a funding increase in the state budget, Governor Wolf signing the PA G.I Bill, and a state system redesign, the future looks bright.

Cody Carlson | WENY-TV

Other Higher Education News

OBSERVER-REPORTER: National teacher shortage affects Pennsylvania

POLITICO: Crucial flaw remains in college testing process