Raising Faith Stories about Dyslexia

Dr. Stacey Irwin

-Director

Myers Auditorium

5:30 - 8:30pm

This film documents the experiences of nine young people with dyslexia and their families. Faith, the primary subject in this film, shares wisdom about the ways she learns and how she negotiated her education through middle, high school and now college. Genetic links are explored and discussed.

Pennhurst They've waited a long time to tell their story

Myers Auditorium | 5:30 - 8:30pm

A documentary film chronicling the stories of many people whose lives are irrevocably intertwined with the history of the Pennhurst State School and Hospital, located outside of Philadelphia. A massive institutional home for the developmentally disabled, the facility closed in 1987. Its haunting past is a reminder of a place and time giving birth to a civil rights movement all its own.

2e2: Teaching the Twice Exceptional

Myers Auditorium | 5:30 - 8:30pm

How does your brain work?

Thomas Ropelewski's sequel to his award-winning 2e: Twice Exceptional, follows the teachers of Bridges Academy, a school in Los Angeles dedicated exclusively to educating highly gifted students with learning disabilities or differences, as they develop creative techniques and strategies to prepare these unique minds to find their places in the world.
