Professors play a key role in how conversations happen within the classroom. However, we are not always prepared for certain conversations that arise so having the tools on best practices on how to navigate difficult conversations related to microaggressions is essential. Together, we will define microaggressions, identify why it is important to address when it occurs, and how to address it in a way that fosters inclusive classrooms. Above all, we will recognize that there is no “one size fits all,” and that we will raise more questions than we might answer but having a willingness to engage in these discussion is the first step in fostering inclusion.
