Will tutoring be available?
Yes! The Tutoring Center offers online tutoring. Individual tutoring can be done through technology like Zoom meeting or Skype at times that the tutor and tutee mutually agree upon. Use our online forms to request to be a tutor or get a tutor. Additionally, we are holding drop-in group tutoring for Business and Earth Sciences through Zoom meetings. Contact the Tutoring Center via email at Tutoring.Center@millersville.edu to get the Zoom meeting ID. See our webpage for drop-in tutoring schedules, forms to request a tutor, and additional information https://www.millersville.edu/tutoringcenter/.

What if I struggle with online learning? Are there any services available?
Learning Services' workshops are available online. Topics include time management, organization, note taking and study skills. If students feel they need face to face workshops, our GA's are available to do so. Students are welcome to contact us at Learning.Services@millersville.edu.

Also, all students can receive a free Kurzweil 3000 user account through our office. Please contact us at Learning.Services@millersville.edu for additional information, or send us your name and MU ID# to request an account. Kurzweil is a software suite that can be downloaded to your personal devices or used through an online portal. Kurzweil will:
- Read digital text and online content aloud
- Focus your reading by highlighting text as you read
- Allow you to take notes on text and export your notes as a
- study or vocabulary guide
- Define and translate text
- Allow you to change the background color of reading material
- and your own writing
- Support writing through templates and planning guides
- Allow you to write in OpenDyslexic font
- Allow you to write both notes and papers through a speech-to-text tool

What if I am already registered for accommodations through Learning Services?
Students registered with the Office of Learning Services will receive their accommodations as usual. If you have any questions or concerns, contact us a Learning.Services@millersville.edu . We've given all students registered with our office a Kurzweil 3000 account that will enhance their online instruction. It will read to those who are unable to read content, write for those who struggle, and a lot more.

Students who receive coaching are still able to meet with their coaches via technology. If your GA has not reached out to you already, please email him/her at their email address, or contact us directly.
