

DISTINGUISHED SCHOLAR LECTURE SERIES

SPRING 2021

PRESENTED BY THE AHSS SCHOLARLY AND CREATIVE ACTIVITY COMMITTEE

Thursday February 25, 2021 at 12:05 p.m.

For the Love of Making

Professor Jeri Robinson-Lawrence

Department of Art & Design

Jeri Robinson-Lawrence will speak about her creative and scholarly research. Robinson-Lawrence joined the Millersville University Department of Art & Design in 1992. Having earned her MFA degree from the Art Institute of Chicago in 1988, she has maintained an active and prestigious scholarly record since 1986. As a self-labeled lifelong learner, Jeri actively seeks out new ways of making and is most interested in working with sustainable materials. Due to this interest she can regularly be found working with wool from her own flock of rare breed sheep. Jeri is also Co-Owner, alongside her daughter, of Flying Fibers, a full-service fiber arts shop located in Landisville, PA. Together they designed and manufactured their own line of yarn under the Flying Fibers Yarn Company label, all of which is hand-dyed by Jeri. Their debut yarn, Yorkshire Medley, is a DK weight blend of Wensleydale and Blue Faced Leicester hand dyed wool.
