Creating and Using an Advising Syllabus

Tuesday, March 2nd 12:05-1:10 pm

Dr. David Henriques

As our students learn to master a course syllabus, academic advisors find that creating an advisement syllabus articulates clearer guidance around both the advisor's and the student's responsibilities in the advisement process. Advisement syllabi can also include information (hot links) to common FAQs, FERPA, directions related to requirements for course registration (a DAR, list of classes, completed check sheet, etc.), campus resources, department resources, campus videos, professional organizations, university policy, etc. An example advising syllabus will be shared.
